10	1. Since college is online, as a student, it would be great if there are extracurricular activities online as well especially for 1st and 2nd year students that way not only do the law students but also the B.A students have something to look forward to. 2. ALL teachers should use PPT to teach us the syllabus which will make it easier to understand it. 3. There should be elections held in the college for CRs and student body presidents because the class needs a response, capable CR with actual leadership skills. This would help us and the teachers to coordinate activities.

106	My first suggestion would be that teachers should often ask questions in between which makes us think about a particular thing, although in online session participation is a rare thing but still there are few who want to answer that. Second thing would be to make students attentive, keep asking a specific student about what was being taught, and due to that all of them will pay attention later. Third suggestion is that if possible teacher can arrange for few informal sessions only for interaction purposes, it makes a certain professor more approachable and hence due to that will be attentive in the class.

191	Every subject teacher should show ppts, reference books names, show articles on screen, etc. For better understanding. Also should reduce the habit of reading continuously like a tape recorder cassette. They should stop in between the sentences and also explain them in Marathi, Hindi too because many students have problems in understanding such hi-fi English. One cannot even take notes of what they are trying to say. This should be strictly improved ASAP. Teachers should active offline communication with the students whenever required.

229	1) Teacher can cite many examples ask questions in between based on the same. It sparks interested in my opinion since it get you thinking about it. 2)If class is being inattentive, teacher can ask any one student to explain the ongoing current topic in brief on which the lecture is being given. That minir fear will compel the students to pay attention. 3) If possible by the teacher, he/she can host informal sessions only for interaction purposes only. That way students open up to the particular teacher and be more interactive with them in the class

294	need for improvement in understanding the problems of technology faced by students
295	By taking monthly Mcq's or giving short assignments of Important Questions.
296	Teachers should use ppts and examples to illustrate concepts. Teachers should atleast check and review the given assignments to students instead of letting it be once they have submitted it.
297	All teachers are very quick to respond to students' questions.The lectures are clear and concise. No time is wasted in explaining meaningless background information and the lectures are with the intent to help the students to understand the material better.
